

um I would agree that video cameras provide a more accurate and convincing record but it's not always the case um videos can be posed and they could be manipulated by the recorder just like written records a lot in history is just determined by the winner winner of wars and the first inventor and some kind of each inventing race it's all started I'm I winners I wouldn't say that it's more important in that sense because that assumes that there is always going to have that technology available